

Unlike English vocabulary, which is often learned as isolated words, Chinese vocabulary grows from base characters organized by clear semantic logic. Learning a single character can unlock a family of related meanings and words — much like buying one item and getting several more for free. Look at the following characters closely. What do they have in common? What is the grouping logic?

How do you pronounce and write these characters?

Click on each character to hear its pronunciation, watch the stroke order, practice writing, and quiz yourself.

yuè	Yī yuè	Èr yuè	Sān yuè	Sì yuè	Wǔ yuè	Liù yuè
月	一月	二月	三月	四月	五月	六月
	Qī yuè	Bā yuè	Jiǔ yuè	Shí yuè	Shíyī yuè	Shí'èr yuè
	七月	八月	九月	十月	十一月	十二月

lì jù zhōngwén de yuèfèn shì zài yī dào shí èr de měigè shùzì hòumiàn jiā yuè zì jiù gòuchéng le měi yīgè yuè de yuèfèn 例句: 中文的月份是在一到十二的每个数字后面加“月”字，就构成了每一个月的月份。